Pre-fill a landing page from an email

Now you can share a link to a landing page in an email and have your contacts' information populate the fields on the landing page based on previously existing contact details. Learn more

Bug fixes

- If a Keap Marketing Number wasn't set up and a user created a public form using the contact form template, the text opt-in message showed up for the phone field and couldn't be removed

- For Chrome users that updated their version, the old email builder in broadcasts displayed an empty page when adding a new block
